7(1) For all purposes of the law of Alberta, a person is the child of his or her parents.

(2) The following persons are the parents of a child:

Presumption of parentage — biological father

8(1) For the purposes of section 7(2)(a), unless the contrary is proven on a balance of probabilities, a male person is presumed to

 - (ii) decree of nullity, or
 - (iii) judgment of divorce;
- (c) he married the birth mother after the child's birth and has acknowledged that he is the father;
- (d) he cohabited with the birth mother for at least 12 consecutive months during which time the child was born and he has acknowledged that he is the father;

- (g) he has been found by a court of competent jurisdiction in Canada to be the father of the child for any purpose.

(2) Where circumstances exist that give rise to a presumption under subsection (1) that more than one male person might be the father of a child, no presumption as to parentage may be made.

(3) Subsection (1) does not apply in the case of a child born as a result of assisted reproduction.

Division 1 Guardianship

Children subject to guardianship

19(1) Every child is subject to guardianship.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to a child who has become a spouse or adult interdependent partner.

(3) A person who is or is appointed as a guardian of a child under this Part is a guardian for all purposes of the law of Alberta.

2003 cF-4.5 s19;2010 c16 s1(17)

Guardians of child

20(1) This section is subject to any order of the court regarding the guardianship of a child.

(2) Subject to this section, a parent of a child is a guardian of the child if the parent

- (a) has acknowledged that he or she is a parent of the child, and
- (b) has demonstrated an intention to assume the responsibility of a guardian in respect of the child within one year from either becoming aware of the pregnancy or becoming aware of the birth of the child, whichever is earlier.

(3) For the purposes of this section, a parent has demonstrated an intention to assume the responsibility of a guardian in respect of a child by

- (a) being married to the other parent at the time of the birth of the child,
- (b) being the adult interdependent partner of the other parent at the time of the birth of the child or becoming the adult interdependent partner of the other parent after the birth of the child,
- (c) entering into an agreement that meets the requirements of the regulations with the other parent to be a guardian of the child,
- (d) marrying the other parent after the birth of the child,
- (e) cohabiting with the other parent for at least 12 consecutive months during which time the child was born,

- (j) voluntarily providing or offering to provide reasonable direct or indirect financial or other support, other than pursuant to a court order, for the child, or
- (k) any other circumstance that a court, on application under subsection (6), finds demonstrates the parent's intention to assume the responsibility of a guardian in respect of the child.

(4) Despite subsection (2), if the pregnancy resulting in the birth of the child was a result of a sexual assault, the parent committing that assault is not eligible to be a guardian of the child under this section.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (4), sexual assault may be found by a court under subsection (6) to have occurred whether or not a charge has been or could be laid, dismissed or withdrawn and whether or not a conviction has been or could be obtained.

(6) A court may, on application by a parent of a child, a guardian of a child or a child, or on its own motion in a proceeding under this Act or the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act, make a determination that a parent meets or does not meet the requirements to be a guardian under subsection (2).

(7) In making a determination under subsection (6), the court may identify the powers, responsibilities and entitlements of the guardian, but the court may not vary those things without an application under section 32.

(8) In an application under this section, the court may, for the purposes of this section only, make a finding that a person is a parent, and in doing so, the court shall have regard to Part 1.

(9) Despite anything to the contrary in this section, a person who is a guardian of a child immediately before the coming into force of this subsection does not cease to be a guardian by reason of this section.

- (5) A person appointed as a guardian under subsection (1) has only the powers, responsibilities and entitlements of guardianship that the guardian had at the time of the guardian's death.
- (6) If a guardian who is subject to a parenting order dies without appointing a guardian under subsection (1), a surviving guardian who is a parent of the child may, subject to any limitations imposed by the court, exercise the powers, responsibilities and entitlements of guardianship that had been allocated to the deceased guardian under that order.

- (a) are not able to agree with each other in exercising the powers, responsibilities and entitlements of guardianship in respect of the child, and
- (b) in the case where the guardians are the parents of the child, are living separate and apart, the court may, on application by one or more of the guardians, make an order relating to the exercise of the powers, responsibilities and entitlements of guardianship in respect of the child.

(2) A parenting order may contain any or all of the following:

- (a) an allocation, generally or specifically, of the powers, responsibilities and entitlements of guardianship among the guardians;
- (b) an allocation of parenting time, which may be by way of a schedule, unless a schedule is unnecessary in the circumstances;
- (c) a dispute resolution process for any or all future disputes regarding guardianship or parenting arrangements, if the process has been agreed to by the persons who are bound by that process;
- (d) any other provisions that the court considers appropriate.

(3) Subject to any limitations imposed by the court, parenting time allocated to a guardian under subsection (2)(b) is exclusive to that guardian.

(4) Unless the court orders otherwise, if a guardianship power or responsibility is allocated to one guardian, the other guardian or guardians remain entitled to make inquiries and to be given information about any significant matter that arises in connection with the exercise of that power or responsibility.

(5) In this section, “parenting time” means time during which a guardian has the power to make day to day decisions affecting the child, including having the day-to-day care and control of the child and supervising the child's daily activities, whether the child is in the guardian's presence or out of the guardian's presence with the guardian's express or implied consent.

Terms and conditions

33(1) The court may make a parenting order for a definite or indefinite period or until a specified event occurs and may impose terms, conditions and restrictions in connection with the order as the court considers appropriate.

(2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), the court may include in a parenting order a term requiring a guardian who intends to change his or her place of residence or that of the child to notify the other guardian or guardians, at least 60 days before the change or within such other period before the change as the court may specify, of the change, the date on which the change will be made, and the new place of residence for the guardian or the child, as the case may be.

34(1) In this section, "variation order" means an order made under subsection (2) or (5).

(2) The court may, on application by one or more of the guardians, make an order varying, suspending or terminating a parenting order or any part of that order.

(3) Before the court makes a variation order in respect of a parenting order, the court shall satisfy itself that a change in the needs or circumstances of the child has occurred since the making of the parenting order or the last variation order made in respect of that order, and in making the variation order, the court shall consider only the best interests of the child, as required by section 18 and as determined by reference to that change.

(ii) one of the guardians has died,

and

(b) the grandparent's contact with the child has been interrupted by

(i) the separation of the guardians, or

(ii) the death of the guardian.

(4) In determining whether to grant permission under subsection (2), the court shall consider the best interests of the child, including

(a) the significance of the relationship, if any, between the child and the person for whom contact with the child is proposed, and

(b) the necessity of making an order to facilitate contact between the child and the person for whom contact with the child is proposed.

(5) Before the court makes a contact order, the court shall satisfy itself that contact between the child and the person for whom contact with the child is proposed is in the best interests of the child, including whether

- (a) the child's physical, psychological or emotional health may be jeopardized if contact between the child and the person for whom contact with the child is proposed is denied, and
- (b) the guardians' denial of contact between the child and the person for whom contact with the child is proposed is unreasonable.

(6) The court may, in a contact order, provide for contact between the child and the person for whom contact with the child is proposed in the form of visits or in the form of oral or written communication or any other method of communication, and may provide for any related matter as the court considers appropriate.

(3) Despite subsection (1) or (2), an enforcement officer is not required to bring the child to whom the enforcement order relates to the applicant if the enforcement officer determines that, in the immediate circumstances, it is not in the best interests of the child.

2003 cF-4.5 s47;2010 c16 s1(25)

Standing in the place of a parent

- (a) is the spouse of a parent of the child or is or was in a relationship of interdependence of some permanence with a parent of the child, and
- (b) has demonstrated a settled intention to treat the child as the person’s own child.

(2) In determining whether a person has demonstrated a settled intention to treat the child as the person’s own child, the court may consider any or all of the following factors:

2003 cF-4.5 s48;2010 c16 s1(26)

Obligation to support child

49(1) Every parent has an obligation to provide support for his or her child.

(2) The obligation under subsection (1) does not extend to a child who

- (a) is a spouse or adult interdependent partner, or
- (b) is under 18 years of age and has voluntarily withdrawn from his or her parents' charge and is living an independent lifestyle.

(3) The obligation under subsection (1) is revived if a child referred to in subsection (2)(b) abandons his or her independent lifestyle and returns to his or her parents' charge.

(4) A child referred to in section 46(b)(ii) has an obligation to make a reasonable contribution to his or her own education.

Child support order

50(1) Subject to this section, the court may make an order requiring a parent to provide support for his or her child on application by

- (a) the child,
- (b) a parent or guardian of the child,
- (c) a person who has the care and control of the child, or
- (d) any other person with the permission of the court where the court considers the application would be in the best interests of the child.

(2) The court may make a child support order only if

- (a) the parents are living separate and apart,
- (b) although the parents are not living separate and apart,
 - (i) the parents are, in the opinion of the court, experiencing such discord that they cannot reasonably be expected to live together, or
 - (ii) one parent has without sufficient cause refused or neglected to provide the other parent or the child with the necessaries of life, including food, clothing and shelter, when capable of providing them,

- (b) is unable to determine which person is the biological father, the court may, for the purposes of this Division only, make a finding that each person who in the opinion of the court might be

2003 cF-4.5 s50;2010 c16 s1(27);2014 c13 s27

Determining child support

51(1) In making a child support order, the court shall do so in accordance with the prescribed guidelines.

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), a court may award an amount that is different from the amount that would be determined in accordance with the prescribed guidelines if the court is satisfied

- (a) that special provisions in an order, a judgment or a written agreement respecting the financial obligations of the parents or the division or transfer of their property directly or indirectly benefit a child, or that special provisions have otherwise been made for the benefit of a child, and
- (b) that the application of the prescribed guidelines would result in an amount of child support that is inequitable given those special provisions and the court shall record the reasons for its decision.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (1), a court may award an amount that is different from the amount that would be determined in accordance with the prescribed guidelines on the consent of all parties if it is satisfied that reasonable arrangements have been made for the support of the child.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3), in determining whether reasonable arrangements have been made for the support of a child, the court shall not consider the arrangements to be unreasonable solely because the amount of support agreed to is not the same as the amount determined in accordance with the prescribed guidelines.

(5) Notwithstanding subsection (1), the obligation of a parent to provide child support outweighs the obligation of a person standing in the place of a parent to provide child support and in determining the amount and duration of child support a person standing in the place of a parent must pay, the court shall consider the following:

- (a) the amount determined in accordance with the prescribed guidelines;
- (b) the amount of child support that is being paid or should be paid by either or both parents of the child;

- (c) the duration of the relationship between the person standing in the place of a parent and the child for whose benefit the order is sought;
- (d) any other factor that the court considers relevant.

- (a) another parent of the child, or

(3) A child support order terminates any previous child support agreement.

Suspension of child support order or agreement

54(1) Except where the court orders otherwise, where a child support order or a child support agreement is made when the child's parents are living separate and apart and the parents resume living together, then, after the parents have lived together again for 30 days, the order or agreement is suspended.

(2) Child support is not payable during any period that a child support order or child support agreement is suspended under subsection (1).

(3) A child support order or a child support agreement ceases to be suspended under subsection (1) if the parents resume living separate and apart.

(4) This section does not apply where the child support is being paid to the child or to a person who is not a parent of the child.

55(1) Except where the court orders otherwise, a child support order terminates on the adoption or death of the child.

- (b) arbitrarily or unreasonably affects the ability of the spouse or adult interdependent partner having the support obligation under the order to provide the support.

(3) If, as a result of priority being given to child support, a spousal or adult interdependent partner support order was not made or the amount of a spousal or adult interdependent partner support order is less than it otherwise would have been, any subsequent reduction or termination of that child support constitutes a change in circumstances for the purposes of applying for spousal or adult interdependent partner support or a variation order in respect of the spousal or adult interdependent partner support order, as the case may be.

- (a) the spouse or adult interdependent partner who challenges the agreement or any part of the agreement entered into the agreement without receiving independent legal advice;
 - (b) in the case of spouses, a consideration in making the agreement or any part of the agreement was the removal by one spouse of barriers that would prevent the other spouse's remarriage within that spouse's faith;
 - (c) in the case of adult interdependent partners, after they entered into the agreement, they married each other;
 - (d) one of the spouses or adult interdependent partners is in receipt of government financial assistance without reasonable support from the other spouse or adult interdependent partner.

Termination of spousal or adult interdependent partner support order

63(1) Except where the court orders otherwise, a spousal or adult interdependent partner support order terminates on the death of the spouse or adult interdependent partner in respect of whom support is paid.
