Lougheed Building, together with the land legally described as:

PLAN "A" CALGARY

(79) FEET SIX (6) INCHES OF LOTS FIVE (5) TO EIGHT (8) INCLUSIVE.

and municipally located at 604 - 1st Street S.W., Calgary, Alberta be designated as a PROVINCIAL HISTORIC RESOURCE under Section 20 of the HISTORICAL RESOURCES ACT, R.S.A. 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows:

The heritage value of the Lougheed Building lies in its representation of Calgary's tremendous commercial growth prior to World War One. An excellent example of the Chicago Style of commercial architecture, the building served as a major centre of commercial activity for most of the twentieth century, and was home to some of Alberta's most important political organizations and business empires.

Built in 1912, the building is significant for its design and construction. The choice of the imposing Chicago Style asserted a confidence about Calgary's urban growth and ability to compete with the metropolitan centres of the East. The Lougheed Building was one of the first buildings in Alberta to use reinforced concrete and one of the first designed for multiple uses: retail space on the first floor, office space and residential floors above. Renovations in the 1940s, including a marquee and a larger lobby, provided an appropriately glamorous entrance to the Grand Theatre in the heyday of movie-going. One of the few remaining examples of this style of architecture in Calgary, it is a familiar landmark in downtown Calgary.

Heritage value also resides with the direct association with the original owner, Senator James A. Lougheed, a prominent lawyer, landowner, and member of Calgary's business elite who was later knighted. The building has housed such influential tenants as the United Farmers of Alberta (U.F.A.), United Grain Growers (U.G.G.), and Calgary Petroleum Products.

It is therefore considered that the preservation and protection of the resource is in the public interest.
